LA NOSTRA STORIA

Ogni vera azienda che si rispetti ha la sua storia e la nostra inizia così: il fondatore fu Badari Marcello che negli ormai così lontani anni 60, poco dopo la fine della seconda grande guerra, decise di intraprendere l'attività di "riparatore di oggetti in metallo".

All'epoca vi era una grande domanda di oggetti da riparare, ma da lì a pochi anni, Badari Marcello si rese conto che le persone erano più interessate al nuovo che al vecchio.

In pochi anni sarebbe iniziato il boom economico in Italia, e con un tempismo perfetto, Marcello iniziò la sua prima azienda di produzione di lampadari artistici. Il lavoro non mancava negli anni 60, tanti nuovi clienti "stranieri" si affacciavano nelle strette vie del centro di Firenze e di certo non mancavano i famosissimi "americani" che all'epoca, avendo un cambio lira/dollaro incredibilmente favorevole, facevano razzia di tutto ciò che era made in Italy. Le clientele stava crescendo e tutto sembrava perfetto, ma come in tutte le belle storie arriva il momento di difficoltà. Il 6 novembre del 1966 una grande alluvione devastò completamente la bellissima città di Firenze, lasciando tutto sotto metri e metri di fango.

Gli Uffizi e tutte le sue opere d'arte furono danneggiate da questa calamità naturale, e logicamente, anche la piccola bottega di Marcello, che si trovava in via dell'Acqua proprio dietro gli Uffizi, non fu risparmiata.

Lo sconforto e la disperazione durarono solo il tempo di inagibilità della città. Quando finalmente poterono raggiungere nuovamente la bottega, Badari Marcello, insieme a sua moglie Marisa, si rimboccarono le maniche ed iniziarono a pulire tutti i lampadari che erano sommersi di fango.

Anche se la volontà di certo non mancò, il materiale era troppo sporco e da lì a qualche settimana di lavoro, si arresero all'evidenza. La fine della Badari Marcello era imminente.

La primavera era ormai alle porte e con essa nuove orde di turisti e imprenditori alla ricerca di affari.

Uno di loro capitò proprio nella bottega di Marcello e vedendolo intento nel pulire quello che ne era rimasto dell'alluvione, lo fermò offrendosi di acquistare tutto ciò che era stato alluvionato pochi mesi prima. Convinto del fascino antico che il fango aveva dato ai lampadari soprattutto per quei cristalli così sporchi da essere diventati marroni.

Donald aveva ragione.

Ancora oggi vendiamo centinaia di lampadari con la nostra finitura F29 con cristalli antichizzati che rievocano proprio questa bella storia con il lieto fine. La lungimiranza di Marcello di certo non si fermò qui. La sua ricerca di creare nuovi modelli che fossero appetibili per i lontani mercati esteri, lo portarono a Cuba, dove, dopo settimane di contrattazione, riuscì a comprare un container intero di lampadari antichi in stile. Una volta rientrato in Italia, Marcello fece disassemblare tutti i lampadari "Cubani" e ne ricavò migliaia di parti che utilizzò successivamente come modellistica per la creazione di nuovi articoli. La Badari Lighting, che ha preso posto della Badari Marcello nel 1983 è guidata dall'ora da Roberto Lari, ha preso la sua vera definizione di azienda leader nel settore di illuminazione classica grazie all'inconfondibile gusto nella realizzazione di lanterne e lampadari classici. Ancora oggi Roberto, durante la creazione di nuovi articoli, utilizza ancora molte parti di quei famosissimi lampadari arrivati da Cuba.

OUR HISTORY

Every truly established business has its story and ours starts like this: Founder Marcello Badari started his company in the sixties. Shortly after the end of the Second World War he decided to launch a new project repairing brass light fixtures. In that period there was a great demand for repairs, however, in a few years, Badari realized that people were more interested in the new rather than the old. Soon after came the great economic boom in Italy and with perfect timing Badari started his first business producing artistic chandeliers. There was plenty of work in the sixties. Many new foreign clients appeared in the tight streets of Florence proper. Of these foreigners the famous Americans that, at the time, had the Lira/Dollar exchange rate in their favor, coveted everything that was "Made in Italy." The clientele was growing and everything seemed perfect but like all beautiful stories a difficult time must come. November 6, 1966 a great flood completely devastated the beautiful city of Florence, leaving everything under a meter of mud. The Uffizi Gallery and all its works of art were damaged in this natural calamity and, as well, Badari's small workshop, located in via dell' Acqua right behind the Uffizi Gallery. The depression and desperation lasted only as long as the city remained under mud.

When Marcello Badari and his wife Marisa were finally able to get to their workshop, they rolled up their sleeves and began to clean all the chandeliers that were submersed in mud. Even though the will to keep working was there, the materials were too dirty and within weeks he surrendered to the truth. The end of Badari was eminent. Spring was at the door and with it, hordes of tourists and entrepreneurs looking for new business.

One such entrepreneur, Donald, happened into Badari's workshop and saw him hard at work trying to clean what was damaged by the flood. He stopped him and offered to buy everything that remained. He was charmed by the antiqued patina that the mud had left on the fixtures as well as the crystals that were dirty and brown. But Donald was right. Still today we sell hundreds of chandeliers with our F29 finish and antiqued crystals that are a reminder of this beautiful story with a fairy tale ending. The progressive nature of Badari did not stop here. His search to create new models that attract the attention of the foreign markets brought him to Cuba where, after weeks of bargaining, he managed to buy an entire container full of antique style chandeliers. Once he returned to Italy Badari disassembled all the pieces of the Cuban chandeliers which produced thousands of parts to use as models for the creation of new pieces. Badari Lighting, that took the place of Marcello Badari in 1983 and has since been guided by Roberto Lari, has taken its place as the leading company in the field of classic illumination. Thanks to unmistakable taste in the creation of classic lamps and chandeliers. Roberto, even today, uses many of the famous parts that arrived from Cuba in the creation of new items.
